TARR SETS EXAMPLE FOR REAL THRIFT

Back yard gardens and cows and chickens on city lots may prove that Memphians are enterprising, but it is left to A. L. Tarr, who conducts a tin shop at Washington avenue and Third street, right across from the courthouse, to show the real spirit of enterprise. In addition to having a garden on the vacant lot adjoining his shop, he has bee hives, five in number, on top of his place of business, and much pure, sweet nectar is extracted from the hives each year.

Thursday Tarr climbed a tree and saved a swarm of bees. He took them down in his hands and never got a sting.

Tarr says that every family in Memphis should have several hives of bees. He declares that working with the thrifty little insects is most interesting.

U. S. RESIDENTS IN ENEMY NATIONS TO GET HOLDINGS BACK

Palmer Reveals Plans for Return of Confiscated Property to Otherwise Loyal Citizens.

CHICAGO, May 29.—"Americans temporarily resident in enemy territory during the war will have little difficulty in having their property returned to them under the new conditions following the signing of the armistice," Attorney-General Palmer told the Illinois Bar association today, discussing the work of the alien property custodian's office.

"When the enemy character of persons rests solely upon their residence, it will be seen that by change of residence into nonenemy territory, they lose their enemy character. The attorney-general has adopted a liberal interpretation of the act, which permits such persons when they lose their enemy character, to be treated as if they had always been nonenemy persons and to have their property returned upon a proper showing of loyalty."

American citizens who lost their property in Germany will be allowed, in the opinion of the attorney-general, to present claims to this government, which will see they are reimbursed from German holdings here. He said that would be much better than turning property back to Germans, for he foresaw that the Germans would not be welcome as business men upon American soil within the next decade, at least.

Much new light on the work of running to earth enemy interests in the United States was given by the attorney-general, who was alien property custodian before he entered the cabinet. He recounted how it was discovered that 13 German-owned insurance companies and the Big Orstein-Arthur Koppel company, near Pittsburgh, manufacturing dump cars, cranes and inside railroads, insisted always that plans of the factories of the firms with which they did business, including the United States Steel, Bethlehem, Midvale and Carnegie, should be furnished so that the blue prints might be sent to the home office in Berlin.

"I am not a suspicious person," Mr. Palmer said, "but when I discovered that our great munition plants were being blown up and that the bombs were always planted in the most vulnerable spot in a mill by somebody who knew every foot of the plans of those mills, I began to wonder whether there was any connection between those circumstances. It is still one of the unsolved riddles of the war."

Mr. Palmer said the Orstein company asked Ambassador von Bernstorff to intercede with Berlin to allow them to take a contract from the Russian government, because they could help win the war for Germany by failing to deliver the goods.

"Down in Florida, the great German-American Lumber company, owned by a prince of Germany, has accumulated nearly 200,000 acres of timber land around St. Andrew's bay," said Mr. Palmer. "This German prince had put millions of dollars into the land, and he had never received any interest or dividends out of it; he had selected the German consul Pascuala as the manager of the company, and when we came to investigate, we found that his company had bitterly resisted an American railroad building a line across his property or across the property of his neighbors in St. Andrew's bay, on which his property was located. It so happens that St. Andrew's bay is the best harbor on the Gulf of Mexico and the nearest harbor on American soil to the Panama Canal. It so happens also that when we took over the plant and began to operate it and examined their books, papers and files, expecting to find a great mass of information about the lumber business, we have found a great mass of the Pan-German literature which has been flooding this country for years. It was a veritable spy center and would have been a nest of sedition if Germany had had her way and we had not taken it away from her."

TEXAS MAN TO LEAD OIL MILL BOSSES

By the custom of rotation in office, D. B. Denney, of Greenville, Texas, vice-president of the National Oil Mill Manufacturers' association, will be president to succeed P. Z. Harlee, of Birmingham, Ala., at the annual convention, which will be conducted at the close of the three-day convention Thursday afternoon at Hotel Chicago. Mr. Denney is very popular among the members of the association and his promotion is expected to be made unanimous.

The election of the Oil Mill Machinery and Supply Manufacturers' association, which will be held at the same time and with the other association, may have almost any result. The present officers of the association, who have been kept in their places for five years, have signified an earnest desire to retire, but it is not known whether the members will permit this or not. The officers are: R. H. Nolen, Dallas, Texas, president; P. Z. Harlee, Birmingham, Ala., vice-president; W. H. Marshall, Chattanooga, secretary.

The following papers were delivered Thursday morning: "The Care of Crude Oil in Mill Storage Tanks," by a representative from Wilson Co. of Chicago; "What Do We See in the Future for the Cotton Oil Mill Industry?" by J. W. Conn, Sanford, N. C. Discussion on the latter paper was led by Theo M. Hammer, of Troy, Ala.
